

ABSTRACT

A switching fabric handles transactions using a protocol that directs packets based on path routing information.

Components participate in transactions using a protocol that 5 issues packets based on physical location of a destination device over the switching fabric, by establishing a virtual link partner relationship between the components.

20726826.doc

10